SORSOGON CITY—IT WAS IN Sorsogon yesterday where President Macapagal-Arroyo saw what the fury of Typhoon "Milenyo" had truly wrought. And she was overwhelmed.

BLOWN AWAY. A house in the middle of a ricefield in Sorsogon is in ruins after it was almost blown away by Typhoon "Milenyo" last Wednesday. Milenyo made landfall in the Bicol region, which bore the brunt of its strong winds, before moving toward Metro Manila and out into the South China Sea.

Thaksin's spectacular rise and fall

DEPOSED Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra

COUP leader Lt. Gen. Sonthi Boonyaratkalin

TWO ARTICLES PUT IN PERSPECTIVE THE MILITARY COUP ON SEPT. 19 THAT ended the rule of tycoon-turned-politician Thaksin Shinawatra. It was Thailand's 18th coup since it became a constitutional monarchy in 1932.

The first article is from The Straits Times of Singapore. It traces not only the rise of Thaksin from a moderately successful businessman to Thailand's most powerful prime minister but also his missteps that led to his downfall.

The second article is from The Nation of Thailand. It explains why the coup, despite its popularity, is a setback to democracy.

The Straits Times and The Nation are members of Asia News Network, a group of 16 newspapers in the region that includes The Philippine Daily Inquirer.

Away, stormy weather!

TESSA!

Tessa Prieto-Valdes

NOT ALL OF LIFE'S STORMS involve wind and rain. Whether it's a tragic death in the family, a marital separation or a debilitating disease, our lives are never spent in a calm sea. When storms come, keeping an optimistic attitude eases a great deal of the pain.

Personally, I coped with my brother's death from motorcycle accident by transforming myself into an outrageous individual, living life by that famous adage, "Carpe diem!" [illegible]

When I turned 40, I consciously decided to focus on keeping myself healthy and fit, the better to weather life's storms.

My athletic younger cousin, [illegible] introduced me to the wholly [illegible] world of triathlon and helped me to focus through Ashtanga yoga. [illegible] people have been noticing my slimmer figure and better posture. In fact, my parents recently told me I was too thin.

Hello! Haven't they ever heard of the line: "You can never be too thin or... too pretty?"

With daily exercises, I don't feel guilty from the occasional midnight snack, like a bite or two of Louisiana Gourmet chocolates. [illegible] recently sent me a box and I have been [illegible] with hiding the sweets from my husband, [illegible]

Snacking is only headed for turbulent times what with the holiday season here already! I always know Christmas is coming when the first bazaar is held. Half the time in a bazaar is spent trying all the free food samples.

For instance, today is the Assumption Bazaar at the Hotel InterContinental, and who can resist those light and fluffy Assumption [illegible]? By the way, that tired joke about [illegible] "the fish balls" is so untrue. We never had fish balls in our canteen.

Breast care

There are so many health maxims. One of my favorites is "an ounce of prevention equals a pound of... flesh?" or something like that. I was thinking about my own two pounds of flesh recently when I had my annual breast exam using Breastcare, a revolutionary breast self-exam glove to help women detect newly developed lumps more accurately and conveniently.

The highly magnifying, [illegible] effect of the glove enhances your ability to feel lumps because it provides a higher level of tactile awareness.

Entertainment/physician brothers Glenn and William Llamas demonstrated the effectiveness of the glove by having me feel small pieces of paper on a pane of glass, which I couldn't detect with my bare hands. The brothers advise women to do the self-exam once a month and preferably a few days after their periods.

[illegible] it was pretty difficult to keep a straight face as they explained the procedure of the exam (on the glass board, of course). They also explained that breast cancer afflicts one in 13 Filipinas, an alarmingly high ratio. Early detection [illegible]

The Breastcare glove is an effective and economical as well. The life span of each glove is about two years. Call the Breastcare hotline at [illegible] or e-mail [illegible]

Elegant ladies

This year's best-dressed ladies of the Philippine Cancer Society (PCS) each received a Breastcare kit. My chic cousin Leica Carpo is [illegible] PCS Ball at the Shang, the most elegant ladies [illegible] gowns by [illegible] designers [illegible]

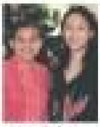

[illegible]

It was great that the best-dressed honorees came from all over the country such as Maggie Moran Pimentel of Davao City, [illegible] of Cebu and [illegible] of Iloilo. When I was in Iloilo last August for the Philippine [illegible] launch, I met the nicest friends and the most hospitable people I have ever met. My trip was totally filled with delicious food, warm hospitality and rich heritage.

Perfect de-stresser

Stress is one of the factors that cause cancer cells to thrive. It's an excellent idea to de-stress via pampering massages, foot spas and facials. That's why four years ago, four friends and I opened up Urban Spa at the Shangri-La Plaza Mall. Managing partner Irene Rodas arranged a tie-up with [illegible] of Colon Me Mine and hosted an all-day, interactive [illegible] in our little corner of the mall.

Fashion prince of couture Rajo Laurel did an informative makeover session for four ladies with matching hair and makeup by Studio 54. [illegible] did my total transformation for that day, too. On the [illegible] side, Happy David [illegible] by Manny Capulla [illegible]

Indeed, when life's storms hit so hard, spa therapy is the perfect de-stresser to get us back on even [illegible].

Zsazsa on a warpath

According to Wikipedia, ureters are the ducts that carry urine from the kidneys to the urinary bladder.

To correct her condition, the doctor had recommended a ureter bypass, but Zsazsa had to delay the operation because of work commitments.

Finally, she is set to go under the knife on Oct. 18.

"I still have two shooting days on 'Encantadia'—on Oct. 11 and 13. Only after can I schedule the surgery which requires three weeks of recuperation," she clarified.

Lots of fluids

The doctor also ordered her to take in lots of fluids. "I drink more of three liters of water a day. I also drink lots of buko juice, a good diuretic. I used to drink more than I ate."

For that reason, plus the stresses of work, medication and impending surgery, she swiftly shed 15 pounds in a month and a half.

"But after 'Bratz' wrapped up taping, my schedule eased up a bit. So I got the chance to rest and resume my weight training. I've gained five pounds so far," she pointed out.

Zsazsa made a pact with her doctor: "That I should be back to my ideal weight, 120 pounds, before my surgery. I'm 115 now. So I only have five more pounds to go."

That she can easily gain "quality weight" is proof that she doesn't have an eating problem, she insisted.

Non-issue

"My weight shouldn't be an issue. I don't want to sound ungrateful to my home network, but I don't like what came out on (the ABS-CBN talk show) 'The Buzz' last week. I'm friends with ('Buzz' hosts) Boy (Abunda), Kris (Aquino) and Cristy (Fermin) and they've promised to help ... but the damage has been done. You shouldn't be too quick to brand people as anorexic."

As of press time, she has declined to guest on "The Buzz" and opted to answer the allegation on GMA-7, on its news and talk shows.

"I didn't want to feed the system. You create an issue on one show so that you'll have something to talk about the following week. That's the oldest trick in the book. I'm not a newcomer in this business," Zsazsa fumed.

SOAPDISH HAS LAUNCHED ITS REPACKaged and refreshed album under Viva Records, featuring "Natulog Lang Ako," written by lead guitarist and vocalist Jeff Bolivar.

The song is the theme of "Pinkk," a youth-oriented series on QTV 11.

Also on the album are 11 cuts that reflect the band's youth-oriented, edgy pop-rock sound.

"We wanted to do our own songs because we wanted people to get to know us, and the best way to do that was to hear them listen to our original music," says Jeff, who writes most of the group's songs.

Sitti rhythm

SITTI

SITTI: Sitti's debut album, "Café Bossa," reached platinum status, comes a follow-up CD called "Sitti Live," recorded during her live performance last May at the newly constructed Ortigas Park along Emerald Avenue.

The live selection showcases her performance of bossa nova classics that drew applause from a mixed crowd of young and old during the concert.

The CD is set to be launched on Oct. 3 at Tavern in Greenbelt.

Among the tracks in the album are "Waters of March," "For Your Eyes Only," "Fever," "Agua de Beber," "Samba Song" and the OPM bossa classic, "Bato Pa Rin," popularized by Tito Mina in the 1970s.

Instrumental album

NONOY Libanan

The album is available in record stores nationwide.

Red Letter Day

THE new acoustic band, Red Letter Day, will be launched at The Lounge on Oct. 3 at 8 p.m.

The group is composed of Jason Santos (vocals), Nemuel Macam (lead guitar) and Teryo Santos (drummer/percussion).

Its debut album, "Stop, Look and Listen," carries 12 original compositions written and arranged by its lead guitarist.

The album, distributed by Ivory Music & Video Inc., is available in CDs in all music stores.

The group has been active in such joints as Mogie Bar, Timuhuiwa, Café Nabgid, Mocha Blends, St. Francis Square, Seaside Macapagal and Dampa sa Libis.

Christmas release

THE COMPANY has released its first Christmas collection after 13 years.

Titled "The Christmas Album," the CD will be launched with a special performance by the group on Oct. 8, 5 p.m. at the Shangri-La Mall.

The album, a Viva Records production, presents Yuletide classics and standards in an assortment of settings, flavors and rhythms.

The carrier single is "Isang Siang Lamigin," a collaboration between Ryan Cayabyab and Jose Javier Reyes.

'Crazy For You'

THE GROUP MichaelAngelo, composed of Michael Monahan on lead vocals and guitar and his brother Angelo on lead guitar and vocals, are the voices behind the theme song of ABS-CBN's "Crazy For You."

The pop-rock duo's "Walk" album will be repackaged to include the version of the hit song this month.
